

A vertical black and white photograph of a dense, dark forest. The trees are tall and closely packed, creating a textured, almost abstract pattern of dark shapes against a lighter sky. The perspective is from a low angle looking upwards, emphasizing the height and density of the canopy.

